LOCAL HEALTH & CARE RECORD EXEMPLARS CALL
East London Leading for Pan London Response to Call

16th January 2018

Introduction

NHS England is about to launch a call for proposals for up to five Local Health and Care Record Exemplar (LHCRE) programmes across populations of 3-5m that can 'raise the bar' in how the NHS, and its partners, share data to help deliver better care for our citizens. Each exemplar will be granted £7.5m available from 18/19 to 19/20 for each locality – matched with local investment and resource to implement and roll out their exemplar programme. Up to 5 of these will be awarded nationally.

LHCRE Expectations

The expectations of the selected exemplars will be that by March 2019 they will be able to demonstrate how:

- all health and care professionals involved in a person's care have access in real-time to a comprehensive care record comprising the pertinent individual level information they need to inform and enhance their care decisions, when and where they need it;
- combining and analysing the underlying data in the record enables delivery of more precise and optimally effective interventions
- the development of population health management addresses upstream exposures (diet, air quality, physical activity, smoking, alcohol, sexual health) and interventions including patient behavioural change, screening and anticipatory care
- they empower citizens and carers to manage their own care by giving them access to their own healthcare records,
- they can work alongside research, academic institutions and public health in providing a rich information base of de-personalised and anonymous information to support research into conditions, the development of new treatments and improved and innovative pathways for care and prevention.
